History of H.A.S. Physicians

Mark Sorrentino MD,MS has been working in the healthcare field since 1989 when he was a Registered Nurse at L.A. County General Hospital. Upon completing medical school in Chicago, he went on to a pediatric residency and then a critical care fellowship at Children's National Medical Center in Washington D.C. He has extensive experience in clinical medicine, research, and hospital administration. As the Chief Medical Officer in a community hospital in Maryland during 2003-2004, he realized that the patients and their families were often left out of the medical decision making process. At the same time, the Institute of Medicine reported that approximately 90,000 patients die each year secondary to medical errors; many of which were preventable. Armed with the knowledge that the community physician is spending less time with each patient, and that hospital-based medicine is becoming increasingly complex, Dr. Sorrentino founded H.A.S. Physicians to be a healthcare-focused professional team with the goal of providing personal healthcare advocacy for the individual patient and their family.
